

Back to ValueCockpit Webseite

ValueCockpit

WertCockpit puts you in the position to take a close look at the "cockpit of life" both in the area of personal coaching and self-reflection as well as in the area of personnel selection and staffing. Identify potentials, tempo and "red areas" to use the right "levers" for further development. In working with teams, the individual results can be taken together and used for teambuilding.

WertCockpit is innovative, vivid, online-based, very fast and uncomplicated feasible. Based on values, the tool measures the abilities and current focus of a person and can not be manipulated due to the task.

WertCockpit is a method developed by experts of the IHH, which belongs to the family of value-metric analyzes and builds on the scientific research of Prof. Robert S. Hartman.

Statements and terminology that are specially tailored to specific target groups facilitate the razor-sharp consideration of various life and work contexts. If required, we will work with you and your organization to develop concepts that are individually oriented to you and your needs and that will provide you with astonishing insights when working with the people in your company or your personal environment.

You can get to know the process and test it for yourself for free by going to the following link: <http://www.wertcockpit.de/Interview/Try/>

After that, you will automatically receive a short evaluation, which gives a first impression. For a detailed evaluation, we will gladly send you a corresponding offer.

If you would like to become a Value Cockpit Partner and choose a training course, we will teach you the following skills in the seminars:

- Bases to analyze the current life situation of a person and to draw conclusions on its suitability for certain jobs or occupational fields or to develop sustainable coaching approaches.
- Advise personnel decision makers appropriately.
- Advice on finding a career.

Back to IHH Webseite